AMAZING NEW EXPOSE

Startling New Chapter of Woman Wage Slavery in Sunday's AMERICAN

The vital problem of woman slavery in this country, which was brought to the attention of the reading public of New England when the AMERICAN exposed the amazing conditions under which women worked in New England, is attracting widespread attention.

The Boston Globe today announces as one of its next Sunday features a supplement on "Should Women Do Hard Work?" The AMERICAN cordially thanks the Globe for taking up this most important matter. Publicity will eventually solve the trouble.

In this connection it may be said that one of the most remarkable and startling chapters of woman wage-slavery in New England that has ever appeared in a newspaper will be printed in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

WORLD'S SERIES SCANDAL GROWS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Because of the bitterness of the method of distributing the money for world's baseball championship, which has enabled speculators to get hold of the pick of the game and result that at three and four times their face value the National Commission will begin a searching investigation to discover who is to blame for the scandal according to the World today.

The National Commission, that of President Ben Johnson, of the American League, and Secretary John H. Bruce, accompanied by Secretary Robert Meyer and Cal Telford, owner of the Boston Red Sox in the Pacific Coast League, reached New York at noon today and immediately went to the office.

The reason for their unwillingness to go was their knowledge that they would be asked for a bunch of tickets, which they did not have.

The National Commission was met at the office by the National League's Secretary John H. Bruce, accompanied by Secretary Robert Meyer and Cal Telford, owner of the Boston Red Sox in the Pacific Coast League, reached New York at noon today and immediately went to the office.

Scalping to Be Feature.

The ticket scalping said to be going to be one of the features of this year's series. Already a couple of the New York newspapers have "gone after" the scalping. The National League's Secretary John H. Bruce, accompanied by Secretary Robert Meyer and Cal Telford, owner of the Boston Red Sox in the Pacific Coast League, reached New York at noon today and immediately went to the office.

SEAVEY HELD IN EXPLOSION CASE

Fred Weaver, accused by the Swampscott police of having blown up the sidewalk of the Swampscott Improvement Society in that town on last Tuesday morning, was arraigned in the Lynn police court today. He pleaded not guilty and to-wait in $3,000 bonds for a hearing next Tuesday.

When the case was presented, the case continued at the request of the Swampscott police, who wish to obtain further evidence.

One of the witnesses testified that he was present and that he was the victim of a man's revenge. He refused to give the name of the woman, but said that he had been told by a woman that she was the one who was told that she told him that he would be blown up. The woman was blown up the following morning.

Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, is making dignified addresses in which he declares that he stands squarely on a certain set of principles, and is earnestly in favor of submitting the question for women voting to the people.

He began to consider seriously to-day, just how much influence the women of State have on an election when they vote.

And none of them could answer question in anything like a satisfactory manner.

TAFT ON TOUR OF CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 12.—President Taft came to California today on the last leg of his 15,000-mile journey from coast to coast. His special train, to which was attached two cars occupied by Governor Johnson, his staff and committee of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, reached here this morning for two hours' stop.

President Taft's visit, which was however yesterday as a result of outdoor speaking in wretched weather early in the week, was improved today. Dr. Rhodes, his physician, sprayed his throat yesterday at frequent intervals and succeeded in giving great relief.

Tattle-Tails

By MORTON BIRGE

All men have told tales in direct ways but did you hear tell of Young? Young tells a tale of stolen kine. "How do I know," says he, "they're mine? I can tell by their tails so long and fine, the tails that these cows swing."

A bad man broke into Young's cow-barn and took two cows away. Young came along, so runs the tale, counted his cows and then turned pale. Two homies were gone, heads, horns and tail—a theft in a retail way.

Then Young slouched around out Brighton way where he found two slaughtered kine.

Also found, runs this tale of tales, hanging right up on two big nails.

Each one of his beautiful bowler tails, quite a suspicious sign.

Some tale—telling tails were these, indeed, yes, regular tattle-tales. Rest of the tale is quickly told. Cows were sold by the rubber bid. Each homie's tail did a tale unfold. Such is the tale of the tails.

This Sale is for 2 Days Only, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13 and 14. We offer you an opportunity to stock up with coffee at old prices, before the advance, which takes place next Monday. "INARI" TEA BRAND

OUR phenomenal success in building up a wonderful sale for coffee has encouraged us to go into the tea business.

Inari tea is the result of many months' effort in selecting an uncommonly fine grade tea to sell at a popular price. There is character to Inari teas.

Get out of the habit of simply asking for "black" or "green" tea. Call for "Inari Ceylon," "Inari Oolong" or "Inari English Breakfast," whichever you prefer. Each blend represents the finest, most select and most carefully treated tea leaf from the greatest tea countries, India, China and Japan, packed and imported for us direct from the fields in leaden chests. From these the tea is immediately transferred to air-tight tins, in which condition it is sold to you.

877 BLEND COFFEE

EVERYBODY knows that coffee prices are higher than they have been in 16 years. Most dealers have advanced their prices many months ago. Up to the present time we have not changed our price, but will be forced to advance it 4 cents beginning next Monday. These few cents do not represent the actual advance in cost to us.

We had to either advance the price or lower the quality of the blend. We built up our business on quality goods, and decided that the public was sufficiently informed regarding the coffee situation and would prefer to pay a few cents more for the same blend rather than buy a poorer coffee at the old price.

This announcement is for the purpose of giving everyone an opportunity to lay in a supply at the old price. Beginning Monday price will be 28c pound, and a further advance may become necessary later.

CALLS BOSTON ROUGE ARTISTIC TAFT PRAISES

Noted Woman Pays a High Compliment to Boston Femininity.

By SYBIL WARNE.

Do Boston women paint and powder? They do, say our beauty specialists, and they ought to know. What's more they do a much more artistic job than our New York sisters.

This once for all puts an end to the popular notion, prevalent from coast to coast, about a Boston woman walking down Tremont street, a tall angular creature, clad in a hideous garment, a copy of the Atlantic Monthly under one arm and a green bag under the other, the whole surrounded by a plain pale beauty which, instead of an attractive-looking creature, is a creature of the night of horror and culture, even with the woman's traits that distinguish her as a woman.

For the thought of the Boston woman, if you please, is a woman who, like all the time, will not let her face be the only thing that counts. She knows that in New York, as in Boston, the face is the only thing that counts. She knows that in New York, as in Boston, the face is the only thing that counts. She knows that in New York, as in Boston, the face is the only thing that counts.

"If women take care of their hands and their teeth, they should not neglect their faces."

A beautiful dress or hat does not look well or is not worn with a poorly cared for face.

"What face needs as much, if not more, attention than your teeth of course. It is the face that people look at."

"Women are more careful in Boston to use the best material in facial adornment. In New York, the face is the only thing that counts. In Boston, the face is the only thing that counts."

"People are getting over the old idea of the face. They are getting over the old idea of the face. They are getting over the old idea of the face. They are getting over the old idea of the face."

THE CATHOLICS

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 13.—"Instead of being a reason why you cannot be a Catholic, the fact that you are a Catholic is a reason why you should be a Catholic."

"The church that has no State support is the church that has no State support. It is the church that has no State support. It is the church that has no State support."

Careless Treatment Ruins Complexion

(From Women's National News.)

Wrinkles and other telltale marks of advancing or premature age, are frequently caused through the careless use of powders and cosmetics, which clog pores and cause the surface skin to grow sallow and lifeless. "Crown's feet," wrinkles and other complexion faults can be made to vanish quickly by managing a plain makeup lotion into the skin until it disappears.

To make the lotion, dissolve a small original package of mayonaise lotion in a half-pint of witch-hazel and it is ready. Using this gradually remove wrinkles and blemishes and leaves the skin soft, smooth and exquisitely beautiful. The mayonaise lotion is splendid for removing pore obstructions, and pimples, as well as to discourage hairy growth.

300,000 WITNESS THE AMERICAN'S GREAT MOTOR BOAT CARNIVAL

CITY AND STATE OFFICIALS LOUD IN PRAISE OF MONSTER ENTERTAINMENT.

Three hundred thousand people saw the great Columbus Night Motor Boat Carnival in the Charles River Basin last night. It was a spectacular affair, and the Boston American was proud to be its great entertainer.

Mayor Fitzgerald, who entertained a special party aboard a steamer, said it was one of the most successful and popular affairs that Boston has ever had. He joined with other prominent officials in praising the Boston American for its work in promoting the basin as a place of large public entertainment.

The scene as the great line of brilliantly decorated motor boats glided away was one long to be remembered. The great basin was a blaze of color. Huge searchlights swung their brilliant shafts up and down the river, picking out here and there a merry party of young people along the parade, and there a few who were lined along the parkway, all with their eyes on the boats.

Most Notable Event.
The towing of whistles, the cheers of thousands all went to make the event a most notable one. Four bands, the finest of the city and state, furnished music throughout the evening while the crowd gathered and after the motor parade had passed the searchlights of the boats, there was a beautiful display of the city's fireworks.

When the long line of brilliantly lighted boats disappeared into the distance, down the river, the crowd and the searchlights were a beautiful sight. Every motor boat was brightly lit, and the searchlights of the boats, there was a beautiful display of the city's fireworks.

Also such a crowd of people. Never in Boston's history has so great a gathering of people gathered in the basin. The searchlights of the boats, there was a beautiful display of the city's fireworks.

Mayor Praises American for Great River Carnival

"This idea of a Motor Boat Carnival and Parade on the part of the AMERICAN places the paper in the position of a real public benefactor. Too much praise can't be given the American for making possible this wonderful entertainment, that was a fitting climax to the best Columbus Day celebration yet held."

"It was a real holiday from beginning to end. If the AMERICAN will step in with such ideas every year, other cities will have to brush up a bit in entertaining the people and showing their parks and waterways can be used for pleasure."

"This AMERICAN Motor Boat Carnival and Parade, which attracted a gathering of people that almost equals in figures the entire population of the city of Boston, shows what a blessing such a place as the Charles River Basin is, and how fortunate we were in this year's celebration of Columbus Day. It was wonderful! It was great!"—Mayor Fitzgerald of AMERICAN Motor Boat Carnival conspicuous in the world as the brilliantly decorated boats cruised past them. And the searchlight and searchlights and searchlights were in less need.

Leading the line was the handsome decorated motor boat, in which was Lieutenant Albert Chapman, who did his work in accompanying the searchlights of the boats, there was a beautiful display of the city's fireworks.

CLEAR COMPLEXION OF ALL AGE MARKS

Writing for the Denver Call, Mae Martyn says: "The woman who dreads using face powder will find splendid relief from her complexion ills by using instead a lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces of eucapmax in $\frac{1}{2}$ -pint hot water, adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Or in cool weather, to make the lotion dry more quickly, use $\frac{1}{2}$ -pint witch hazel instead of the water."

"This simple, inexpensive lotion far surpasses face powder, as it gives lasting beauty to the skin. It stays on better and does not show on the skin like powder. For whitening and refining a coarse, muddy or sallow skin, this lotion is unequalled. It takes away that shiny look and makes the skin as dry and youthful looking. No beauty seeker should be without this wonderful complexion beautifier, as a few applications will make any face look years younger."

MUTT AND JEFF ARE REGULAR FEATURES IN THE BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN

By C. O'CONNELL GALVIN.

The Papal army and the Popes' colors of yellow and white, had a conspicuous place in the decorations, and the national standard of the United States was prominently displayed. In the center of the parade was McMahon Hall, the main University building. The struts of the Marine Band playing to slow time the march, "O'ward to the Colors," were in the lead, and in front of the portico of McMahon Hall. At the imposing line was seen advancing with step and steady step down the avenue toward the University.

The way was led by the superbly mounted police of the District of Columbia, every man a perfect rider and in full uniform. Behind them the battery of white and gold, and behind them the band of the University of Maryland. Then came the Own, then the cross-bearer and acolytes.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—No-body loves millionaires any more since millionaires were the popular heroes of the nation—the brilliant exemplars set up for youth to follow; but now everybody is throwing bricks at millionaires or making laws to hurt the rich. The millionaire, following the instinct of self-protection, has taken a back seat. It's awful.—Eugene Zimmerman, multi-millionaire and father-in-law of the Duke of Manchester.

Lodge Pleas and Lodge Threats Will Not Influence the Massa- chusetts Workingman

Candidate Frothingham and the stand-pat Republican speakers are descending to the lowest depths of demagogism in their addresses to the workmen of Massachusetts.

They begin by assuming that the average factory employe is a queer combination of ignorance, timidity and selfishness. After they have thus sized him up, they proceed to tell him things that they would not dare to tell any one except a timid, selfish and ignorant man.

Candidate Frothingham asked some workmen in Worcester the other day this foolish question: "How would you like to have this factory close down indefinitely? Do you realize that many mills and factories all over the country are seriously threatened if the Democrats are allowed to attempt a tariff revision?"

The AMERICAN hopes that the workmen who heard Mr. Frothingham ask this question, and those other workmen who have heard him ask similar questions elsewhere, will do a little "sizing up" themselves, and when they have taken Mr. Frothingham's measure will ask themselves whether his appearance, manners and remarks indicate that he is a man capable of advising them how to vote.

Does he seem to be the kind of man who can tell Massachusetts workmen how, in the light of their own interests, their State's and their country's, they ought to cast their vote?

If the workmen are timid and ignorant enough to believe the wretched falsehoods and scares which the stand-pat Republican speakers are now feeding to them, are they selfish enough to allow these false alarms to control their action? Will they put their fears above the general interests of all the citizens?

Every intelligent workman whom Mr. Frothingham addresses will address knows that there is now in progress in this State and country a great struggle. Upon the one side are a very few men who control the wealth of the nation and are exploiting it for their own private gain. Upon the other side stand the great masses of the country.

Upon the one side are men who have accumulated huge private fortunes at the expense of the country, by methods usually contrary to law and always contrary to public morals. Upon the other side are those who see the evil in this situation and propose to prevent the continuance of those methods by which the evil is produced.

Under the control of its bosses, Lodge and Crane, the Republican machine has thrown off all disguise and has taken openly the stand-pat

On the question of the national income tax which has been over-whelmingly adopted by a Republican Congress and a Republican President, this reactionary Massachusetts machine is silent in its platform.

On the question of the direct election of the United States Senators, which even the National Senate, itself controlled by Republicans, now favors, the stand-pat Lodge and Crane machine has compelled the Republican State convention to be silent in its platform.

That platform is silent on the parcel post, on the great question of conservation of the national resources and upon every issue which the progressive Republicans advocate who followed Roosevelt and who nominated Taft because he declared he favored the Roosevelt policies.

The workmen to-day know of ought to know that the Republican party is at the parting of the ways in the nation. Aldrich, Hale, Burrows, Dapew and Carter, representatives of Wall Street who dominated the Republican party for years through the power of the interests behind them, have one by one been reduced to private life by the increasing progressive sentiment in the party.

Will the factory employes of Massachusetts, to whom Republican demagogues are sounding these false alarms, allow themselves to be weakly frightened and stampeded in this contest which is critical because it will have a great influence upon the future of at least one of the great political parties of the country?

The history of the working classes among English-speaking people does not indicate that the Republican reactionaries can rely with any confidence upon the existence of any selfish timidity among the workmen.

If they would hark back to the Civil War and recall the courage and the patience and the nobility of the English workmen in the cotton mills of England, they would cease to hope that such appeals as they are now making would have any effect upon the ear of the Massachusetts workmen.

During the Civil War when the country was divided, and men of equal courage were struggling, the one side to suppress human slavery and the other to preserve it, the attitude of England became of vital importance. If England recognized the belligerency of the Southern States, the task of preserving the Union would have been made more difficult, if not impossible.

Our Union warships had blockaded the Southern coast, preventing the shipping of cotton abroad, and the English cotton factories, which were dependent upon cotton as their raw material, had closed down and the workmen were walking the streets of the great manufacturing cities in idleness and hunger. The English aristocracy sympathized with the slaveholding aristocracy of the South. The English cotton manufacturers wanted to break the Northern blockade and enable their factories to reopen by obtaining once more the cotton from the Southern fields. This could be accomplished by recognizing the belligerency of the Southern Confederacy, so it became a grave question of English policy.

President Lincoln and the leaders of the Republican party at Washington were alarmed at the situation in England. France was controlled by Napoleon III, and having ambitions in Mexico, stood ready to follow the action of the English government if she should recognize the belligerency of the Southern States.

This question so vital to our national existence, turned upon the attitude of the English workmen. They were told by their employers that if the blockade of the Southern coast by the Union Navy was broken, cotton would pour into their factories and the spindles would begin to whirl. But their hearts and consciences told them that to interfere in such a situation would help the cause of human slavery among one of the great nations of the earth.

It was a hard question for the English workmen to decide, for they were hungry. President Lincoln, however, was a statesman, and Henry Ward Beecher, to freedom, to plead with the workmen to stand by the cause of human freedom at any cost to themselves. They responded. Arguments that to destroy slavery in the South would destroy cotton production there and cotton manufacturing in England were made in vain. They were willing to be right and to put their faith in a righteous cause.

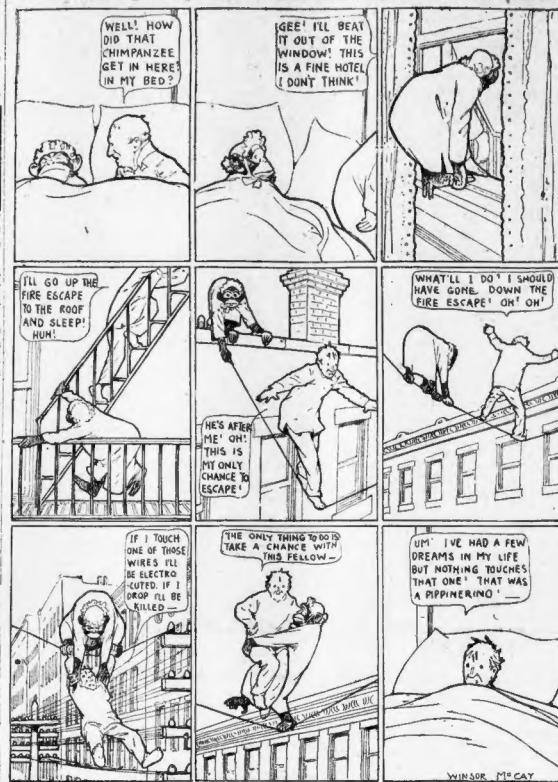

When they gave their verdict, England refused to interfere. The suffering of the English workmen continued longer, but it was not forever, and they have proved that as a class they are more capable of unselfish sacrifice for a high principle than all others.

The American workmen have neither less courage nor less generosity than those across the sea. It will be a surprise, if the base arguments now presented to them by stand-pat Republicans can result in anything but a secret resentment.

Motor Boat Night Carnival a New England Record Breaker

Charles River Basin Without a Peer in America in Its Pleasure Possibilities

The Columbus Night Motor Carnival, a brilliant climax to yesterday's great Columbus Day celebration, was the biggest evening event that New England ever saw. It showed to Boston the magnificent possibilities of the Charles River Basin—a pleasure spot without a peer in America.

Taking the Boston Globe's estimate of the giant throng that saw the beautiful spectacle, there were something like 350,000 men, women and children lined along both sides of the river. The Globe to-day said that "upwards of 250,000 people thronged the esplanade," and "more thousands stood upon the Cambridge side." Estimating those on the Cambridge side, where there was a band, at 100,000, the crowd that saw the evening spectacle was greater than the Globe's estimate of those who saw the monster day parade, the globe putting that at 300,000.

The Boston AMERICAN was animated by a desire to popularize the Charles River Basin in its promotion of the Motor Boat Carnival. The great success of the girls' swimming contest six weeks ago and the remarkable result of last night's carnival have accomplished in a large measure what the AMERICAN desired.

The Charles River Basin will be considered from now forward in every big celebration that is held in Boston. It has more than fulfilled the most sanguine hopes of the Metropolitan Park Commissioners and others who planned it.

The AMERICAN wishes to take this opportunity to thank the public for the spirited and patriotic manner in which they came out and participated in the evening's entertainment. With the seal of approval of the people on the Charles River Basin, its future is assured.

This newspaper also desires to thank the Metropolitan Park Commissioners for their hearty and untiring co-operation in making the event a glorious success. The Metropolitan Park Commissioners and their chief police officials did everything in their power to aid in the production of the splendid results that were achieved.

The Cambridge Carnival Committee gave their time and the benefit of their experience to the motor boat parade. Officials of towns in the Metropolitan District gave valuable aid. In short, it was the cordial co-operation of all these that made such a happy result possible.

The Boston newspapers, realizing that the utilization of the Charles River Basin was a great Boston asset, were generous in their notices of the coming event, and they gave much space to a report of it in to-day's paper. The AMERICAN extends its thanks to these newspapers and begs to say that concerted action by the newspapers of this city along such lines as the popularization of the Charles River Basin cannot help but prove of mutual benefit to the city and the newspapers.

The Boston AMERICAN to-day congratulates Boston on the possession of the Charles River Basin—the crowning glory of her unrivalled park system!

The Broad Highway

By MILES OVERHOLT

M. VERSATILE DUBBINS wishes to inquire how to pile up some wealth without cause to perjure. A soft, easy job is the candy for Dub, but he's shy on position, and there is the rub. You could borrow a dollar and purchase some soap. And sell it to folks as some corn-curling dope. You could wrap it up neatly and label it "Pure"—But the Lord help you, Dub, when the stuff falls in curd.

Or you might take a photo of Old Deacon Bluff. When he comes from the place where he got "just enough." And then you could offer the picture for sale. To the deacon next day—but it might mean the jail.

You could sell child insurance without any skill. (If a payment is missed, why the policy's null.) You could fail to collect when the money is due. And there'd be no expense—the results' up to you.

Or you might find a man who is killed by a car. And swear 'twas your brother; heart broken you are. Ten thousand would do; and of course you must cry—

You might take off your clothes, get a job in a zoo. As a man-eating "bare," or a tall kanarero. If all of those fail, doff your smile and your smirk. And get down to business and work, Dubbin, work.
